

Inventory of plants used in traditional medicine in Tanzania. II. Plants of the families dilleniaceae—Opiliaceae

IngaHedberg^aOlovHedberg^aPosanyi J.Madat^cKeto E.Mshigeni^d, E.N.Mshiu^e, GunnarSamuelsson^b

^a Department of Systematic Botany, University of Uppsala, UppsalaSweden

^b Department of Pharmacognosy, University of Uppsala, UppsalaSweden

^c Government Chemical Laboratory, Muhimbili Medical Centre, Dar es SalaamTanzania

^d Department of Botany, University of Dar es Salaam Muhimbili Medical Centre, Dar es SalaamTanzania

^e Traditional Medicine Research Unit, Muhimbili Medical Centre, Dar es SalaamTanzania

https://doi.org/10.1016/0378-8741\(83\)90030-290030-2)Get rights and content

Abstract

Forty five plants are listed, which are used by traditional healers in the northeastern part of Tanzania. For each species are given: the botanical name with synonyms, vernacular name, collection number, locality, habitus, approximate distribution and medical use. Results of a literature survey are also reported, including medical use, isolated constituents and pharmacological effects.